The software requires a little time to learn and the learning curve is not very steep, if one follows the instructional materials. ACDSee Professional allows for the synchronous creation of a 2D model on the computer and the subsequent generation of industrial-scale plastic injection molds, metal components, various mechanical and optical products. The Tesla factory in Fremont, California, emits nearly 20 percent more carbon dioxide than the company's energy use. If that doesn't change, by the end of the year it will produce about 80,000 tons of carbon dioxide, according to a leaked estimate by a local advocacy group. The impact of Tesla's emissions on the environment is unclear because the automaker takes its own data seriously and won't disclose its operations, said David R. Jenkins, a professor of management at the University of California, San Diego. "They are deliberately vague," he said. "They talk a lot about this but don't talk numbers." It's not unusual for automakers to reveal little about the
